Hickman Matching Roof Panels and Edging Provide Pizzazz to Citgo Station

The Citgo-Eblen gas station in Asheville, NC is hard to miss, thanks to a vivid red metal roof and matching roof edging from Hickman. The roofing color and materials complement the Citgo logo, enhancing its corporate identity. The bright, cheerful color stands out, creating a visual landmark that also helps Citgo attract more customers.

Pulling off an exact color match between the metal roof panels and edging material was no small task—just ask project installer Bobby Smith, owner of Asheville's B.C. Smith Roofing. "Hickman was the only company who could match this custom color for all components," he explained. "I looked around, and found some that were lighter or darker, but Hickman was able to custom mix the color and coat the materials to match the sample provided."

This project provided Hickman with the perfect opportunity to offer a new product—metal roof panels called Hickman Moduline™ Architectural Panel Series—as part of the package. For the roof panels, the Highline Series SS-1500 .032" aluminum standing seam panels was selected. "This new Moduline panel series is a direct response to customer requests, and it's a major convenience for our roofing customers. In the past, most roofers had to work with two or three different manufacturers to get all the components they needed. Now they can simply come to us for the complete metal package,” commented Bryan Duvall, Hickman customer service representative.

Other Moduline products include the Batten Panel Series, two wall panels (Reflection and Shadow Series) and a vented or non-vented Soffit panel. Panels are supplied cut-to-length along with color matched head, sill, closure trims. Matching sheet stock is available for the installers use upon request. All panels are also available in 24 standard colors for fast delivery.

The Citgo station also sports Permasnap®.050” aluminum parapet wall coping. Both the coping and the roof panels were coated with a custom color Kynar 500® finish, called “premiere cardinal red.”

“Hickman got the job done on time, and UNDER budget. They worked closely with me, were very responsive, and they have good quality products,” project installer Smith concluded. “The owners are happy and so is the general contractor.”
